THE ULTIMATE SHERRY CASK WHISKY

History

A great history exists between the Scottish whisky houses and the wineries in Jerez, specifically with González Byass and Whyte & MacKay, who have been working together since 1915. This has led to a strong relationship between Master Distiller Richard Paterson and Master Blender Antonio Flores, both experts in their field. Together, they decided to change the rules of whisky with their innovative Nomad Outland Whisky: born in Scotland then finished in Jerez, the homeland of González Byass.

Nomad

Nomad is a premium blend of the best Scottish whiskies hand selected by Master Distiller Richard Paterson. The blend is made up of 30 different whiskies, mainly from Speyside, of 5 to 8 years old and 40% malt. Once the whiskies have been blended, they are aged in former Oloroso Sherry casks in Invergordon, the heart of Speyside, for 3 years in order to blend and create the perfect balance. Following its time in Scotland, the blend is then transferred to the home of Sherry in Jerez de la Frontera, located in the south of Spain. There, the whisky is aged in 600-liter Sherry butts that have previously aged Pedro Ximenez for an average of 10 years in the Solera system. The whisky spends 12 months in these casks in González Byass' historic cellars. The unusual ambience of this 19th century cellar, which houses yeasts native to the González Byass winery, paired with Jerez's unique climatic conditions of high temperatures, high humidity and maritime influence, give Nomad its particular and incomparable personality.

PERFECT BLEND	Blend of 30 whiskies, 40% malt (blends are usually 20-25%) Specifically chosen by Master Distiller Richard Paterson to form the perfect blend 3 years ageing as a blend in Scotland to perfectly 'marry' (blends do not tend to be aged as a blend)
ULTIMATE SHERRY CASK WHISKY	Aged in 3 different types of oak: Each whisky separately in ex bourbon American oak casks 3 years as a blend in ex Oloroso Sherry casks in Scotland 1 year in ex Pedro Ximenez Sherry casks in Jerez
BORN IN SCOTLAND, RAISED IN JEREZ	1 year ageing in Gonzalez Byass historic cellars in Jerez The only whisky to be aged in Jerez Pioneer in Outland Whisky

Tasting Note

Bright topaz colored Whisky. Inviting aromas reminiscent of oak and Sherry due to its ageing in American oak sherry casks. Smooth and elegant on the palate with prominent flavors of raisins, honey and a distinctive bouquet, as a result of the 12 months spent in ex Pedro Ximenez casks. A long finish, pleasant with hints of vanilla and dried fruits. A very elegant Whisky with a complex aftertaste.
